ACROSS RIVER

The state of Louisiana today faced the most serious flood crisis it has ever known. Five rivers contributed their share of destruction in that state.

The Mississippi, Ouachita, Red and Black rivers overflowed many square miles of rich cotton and sugar lands in nine parishes of Louisiana while water from the Arkansas river swept down out of Arkansas to increase the inundated area.

Eleven refugee camps were prepared if necessary to care for 200,000 Louisiana refugees which may be added to the 250,000 already homeless in Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky and Illinois.

Four thousand workmen fought to bolster weakened levees and save the "twin cities" of Monroe and West Monroe, La., from further inundation from the Ouachita river. The combined population of the two cities is more than 25,000.

Maj. John C. H. Lee, chief engineer of the Vicksburg district, warned that the main levees of the Mississippi may give way at any time at points below Vicksburg on the Louisiana bank.

The Mississippi stood from 14 to 28 feet above the level of Louisiana lands below Vicksburg today, and levee breaks would cause one of the worst inundations in history.

A slight drop in the river level at New Orleans gave that city a greater sense of security. The dynamiting of the Poydras levee blew New Orleans and breaks upstream relieved the strain on the New Orleans dikes.

Relief workers in Louisiana believed there would be no serious loss of life in that state to swell the estimated death toll of 350 from the flood. They predicted a total of 13,000 square miles of land would have been inundated before the flood drains away into the Gulf of Mexico.

Baton Rouge, La., May 3.—Louisiana today became the battleground of the Mississippi flood as the crest of the destructive stream swept southward, straining and breaking through levees which have held the river in check.

Thousands of men, women and children are trekking from the lowlands to places of safety on bluffs and high spots across the river. Additional thousands have been warned to evacuate their homes in Vovelles Parish, threatened by a break in the Red river at Echo.

Baton Rouge, the capital, is turning its attention from politics to the sterner business of rescue and relief of suffering. All flood relief agencies center here and are personally directed by former Governor John M. Parker.

Coast guard boats, privately owned vessels and U. S. navy craft are being assembled for the emergency which apparently cannot be averted. Flat-bottomed skiffs propelled by outboard motors are being used to patrol submerged districts between Vidalia and New Orleans.

Although the largest city in the south, New Orleans, is apparently safe from the flood danger due to an artificial levee opening at Poydras, 14 miles south, backwater from St. Bernard Parish is seeping into the low industrial section by way of the Lake Borne ship canal.

The water loosed on the valley to save the town is returning to plague New Orleans which thought flood danger was past. Attempts of hundreds of workers to erect a levee along the canal bank have proved unsuccessful so far.

In any event, however, the water from the canal is much less to be feared than the torrent of the Mississippi and damage from this source will probably be comparatively slight.

Overflow from the Arkansas river has flooded the entire northern part of Louisiana and with the Red river swollen almost to the breaking point and still rising, additional floods are feared.

Evacuations are under way in Bordelonnville, Moreauville, Cottonport, Hamburg, Odenburg, Krot-springs, Simmsport and Melville.

MOUNT LASSEN IN ERUPTION; EMITS SMOKE

Red Bluff, Calif., May 3.—(UP)—Emitting one of the heaviest outbursts of smoke in years, Mount Lassen, the United States' only active volcano, erupted today. Smoke from the crater shot high into the air and was carried south by the wind.

Reallocation of Broadcasting Stations' Wave Lengths Starts

Washington, May 3.—(UP)—The Federal Radio commission announced today it has started reallocation of broadcasting stations' wave lengths, and that the structure thereof will be finished within a fortnight. Commissioner H. A. Bellows reiterated consolidation of stations is the ultimate remedy for New York and Chicago interference.

GOOSE GOSLIN COLLAPSES; HAS BAD CASE PLEURISY

Washington, May 3.—(UP)—Goose Goslin, start outfielder of the Senators, was out of today's game with the Yankees, having collapsed in a hotel lobby last night from pleurisy. He had a fever of 103 at the time. Sam Rice was also out of the game with sinus trouble.

Warnings were issued for Bunkie and Marksville.

Marksville, county seat of Avoyelles Parish and center of refugee work, seemed destined to fall before the onslaught of the Red river. Those who fled from the Arkansas river flood will have to move again.

At Bastrop, La., 1,000 refugees have been quartered. Merrouge and all the northeastern parts of the state were threatened by the flood. Many people have not evacuated these sections and fears were expressed for their safety.

Dr. J. M. Kline, weather bureau chief for this section, explained the lower river situation today as follows:

"Flood waters from crevasses in the Mississippi river below Vidalia are moving southward toward the Red river and also spreading north and westward.

"For the last two weeks, the rise of the Black river at Jonesville, La., twenty miles west of Vidalia, has averaged two-tenths of a foot daily. The gauge at this city showed a rise of more than half a foot within the past 24 hours.

"Harrisonburg, Cathaholua Parish, also reported a rate of rise in flood water during the last 24 hours that was double the previous rise.

"Water from crevasses in the Arkansas river continues to spread over northern Louisiana.

"A special report from Bastrop, Morehouse Parish, shows that Jones and Nonita are overflowing and water is expected to reach Merrouge and Oakridge very soon.

"Bayou Bartholomew continues to rise at a dangerous level."

Damages to be paid residents of St. Bernard and Plaquemine Parishes for the flood which saved New Orleans will be discussed at a special reparations committee meeting in New Orleans today. Gov. H. O. Simpson appealed to the committee to consider the patriotism of the parishioners in fixing the indemnities.

He termed surrender of homes and lands as "one of the most patriotic sacrifices the world has ever beheld."

The message from the governor to the reparations committee said:

"In calling you together to begin your arduous duties, it may not be amiss to say the unselfish sacrifice of the people of St. Bernard and Plaquemine parishes in voluntarily surrendering their homes and property to insure the safety of the great city of New Orleans from the angry flood waters of the Mississippi river should ever be considered one of the most patriotic sacrifices the world has ever beheld.

"Their heroic action will no doubt go down in history as a living, breathing example of devotion to duty, one that unborn generations will hereafter recount with pride as worthy of the best citizenship of this nation.

"In dealing with these patriotic people, I know you will be fair, honest and conscientious."

Fairmont, W. Va., May 3.—(UP)—Eight blackened bodies today were recovered from the depths of the Everettstown mine near here where 109 miners were imprisoned Saturday by an explosion and fire.

Rescuers reached the eight additional bodies shortly before noon increasing to a total of 25 the known dead in the mine accident.

The eighth body recovered today was that of Harvey McKay, brother of the mine superintendent.

When McKay's body was brought to the surface by the relief workers, Robert M. Lambie, chief of the West Virginia bureau of mines, said that he no longer entertained hope that any of the 69 men in the shaft had survived.

The squads of rescuers planned to immediately re-enter the mine in search of 69 men who were in the shaft when the explosion came and who have not been accounted for.

Little hope was held that any of the 67 entombed men would be found alive. Gas and fire have swept through the underground tunnels, mine experts said in giving their opinion that none would be found alive.

Sixteen who were trapped by the explosion were rescued alive and were in hospitals today recovering from their injuries.

BORAH DENIES PRESIDENTIAL ASPIRATIONS

Washington, May 3.—(UP)—A published report indicating Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, had ambitions for an organization to push him for the presidency in 1928, on a third-party ticket, was denied by Borah today.

The Idaho senator said the article referred to a letter he wrote dealing with a subject entirely different from a third party.

Besides, the senator does not intend to leave the Republican party, he said. Borah was one of the senators who refused to follow Roosevelt in his split against the regular Taft republicans in 1912.

Fredericksburg, Va., May 3.—(UP)—Special detectives today were assigned to find the killers of Albert Baker, 9, whose body, mutilated and tied in a sack was found in the Rappahannock river near here by fishermen.

The sack was weighted with rocks. The lad's skull had been fractured, both legs were broken and one hand was gone.

Police are working on the theory the boy, missing since February 22, was struck down by autoists who hid his body to avoid detection.

Another theory strongly held, however, was that the lad had been beaten to death with rocks like those found in the sack.

Albert vanished from a principal street here during daylight. Police of 100 cities were asked to hunt for him. The governor of Virginia issued an appeal, rewards were offered and radio and clairvoyants were invoked to solve the mystery. Albert's grand-mother died from worry over his disappearance.

8 PERSONS HURT, 12 FARM HOMES ARE DESTROYED

MANY HEAD OF CATTLE AND MUCH POULTRY KILLED

DAMAGE IS ESTIMATED TO BE FROM $50,000 TO $75,000

Spring Hill, May 3.—Louis Giltzer, 17, was instantly killed when struck by lightning while plowing on a farm near here late Monday. Two horses also were killed in the electrical storm. His home is in St. Martin.

Fair Haven, Minn., May 3.—(UP)—Doctors and nurses today are caring for at least eight persons who were victims of a cyclone that swept a path 13 miles long and about a half mile wide just north of here late Monday.

Near a dozen farm houses were destroyed and many head of cattle and much poultry was killed in the leveling of farm land. Early estimates of the damage was placed at from $50,000 to $75,000.

The cyclone was of short duration but was terrific. It passed eastward to the vicinity of Becker, Minn., where it is believed there was heavy property damage and destruction of crops. All along the 13 mile stretch many houses were unroofed and windows broken.

Zimmerman, Minn., reported having received the brunt of the storm with surrounding territory being heavily damaged. Trees were uprooted and livestock killed.

The cyclone ended its course in that vicinity, it is believed, after creating havoc on farms and in homes where rain, accompanied by the heaviest hail witnessed in the stricken area in years.

Damage from the heavy hail, reports state, was even more destructive than the winds. It drove through windows and house tops with terrific force.

The farm homes just north of here where the cyclone took a toll of heavy damage to life and property present a scene of desolation and suffering.

Rhinehardt Mouser was perhaps the most seriously injured and added to his suffering of broken ribs and cut face is the thought of an injured wife and baby. Mrs. Maurer and the baby are cut and bruised.

Mrs. Albert Giese was seriously injured when struck by flying timbers. Her husband was cut and bruised while working on their farm. A son was also injured.

Leonard Luehmann was painfully injured and his girl slightly hurt when the automobile in which they were riding overturned and was whirled over and over by the strong winds. Luehmann's hand was nearly cut off by flying glass.

Mrs. Fred Markwardt, an aged woman living on a farm near here, is seriously ill from a heart attack brought about by fright when the twister swept away several small buildings on her property.

The storm, which was aided in its wild destructive antics by the hail which was as large in appearance as baseballs, struck at about 3:30 P. M. Monday.

Doctors and nurses were rushed to the scene of the disaster from Annandale and Kimball immediately and started their work of administering aid to the sufferers.

It is believed there may have been more injuries and possible deaths along the route of the cyclone.

LABELLED "THIRD TERM" AND "SPECIAL SESSION"

DEMOCRATS ARE SCANNING POLITICAL TRADE-WINDS

SEEK TO SET UP STORM AGAINST COOLIDGE CANDIDACY FOR THIRD TERM

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, May 3.—Bundles of trouble, labelled "third term" and "special session" are due to be laid upon President Coolidge's doorstep this summer.

Democratic and irregular republican groups are scanning political trade-winds to find out if they can stir up a whirlwind against the president's possible candidacy for re-election. Several replies are being prepared to the statements of Sen. Fess, republican, Ohio, advancing Mr. Coolidge as the best republican candidate.

Democratic senators, especially those from the flood areas, are anxious for a special session of congress to vote the millions of dollars necessary for flood relief, prevention of pestilence and rehabilitation.

The democrats voiced little resentment at the president's veto of the special session idea, and bent their efforts to getting various government departments to devote all effort to rescue work.

However, many of them believe that these emergency funds will not meet the needs of the 250,000 or more persons made homeless for weeks, perhaps months, and robbed of one to two years' income by the great Mississippi.

Some democrats hold hope that several millions of dollars can be borrowed to help in rehabilitation and disease prevention work as a follow-up to the $10,000,000 sought by the Red Cross from private contributions, such borrowings to be repaid by congress. No steps have been made yet to put such a scheme in effect.

The "third-term" issue has already been raised by Sen. Norris, republican, Nebraska. Among critics of the administration, Sen. LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, and Sen. Borah, republican, Idaho, are understood to hold similar views and they may say so this summer.

One senator said significantly today he expected the third-term issue to be agitated "for some time yet."

FRANCE, ITALY, JAPAN
AND U. S.

Tokio, May 3.—(UP)—Japanese ambassadors to Great Britain and the United States were instructed today to urge upon those governments the importance of co-operation among the five powers in dealing with Chinese nationalists in connection with the Nanking disorders of last March.

The powers are Great Britain, Italy, France, Japan and the United States.

The United States inclination toward independent action, it was feared here, would lead to embarrassments. Premier Tanaka sent the instructions to Ambassador Tsuboi Matsudaira at Washington and to Ambassador Keishiro Matsui at London.

8 PERSONS HURT, 12 FARM HOMES ARE DESTROYED

MANY HEAD OF CATTLE AND MUCH POULTRY
KILLED

DAMAGE IS ESTIMATED TO BE
FROM $50,000 TO
$75,000

Spring Hill, May 3.—Louis Giltner, 17, was instantly killed when struck by lightning while plowing on a farm near here late Monday. Two horses also were killed in the electrical storm. His home is in St. Martin.

Fair Haven, Minn., May 3.—(UP)—Doctors and nurses today are caring for at least eight persons who were victims of a cyclone that swept a path 13 miles long and about a half mile wide just north of here late Monday.

Near a dozen farm houses were destroyed and many head of cattle and much poultry was killed in the leveling of farm land. Early estimates of the damage was placed at from $50,000 to $75,000.

The cyclone was of short duration but was terrific. It passed eastward to the vicinity of Becker, Minn., where it is believed there was heavy property damage and destruction of crops. All along the 13 mile stretch many houses were unroofed and windows broken.

Zimmerman, Minn., reported having received the brunt of the storm with surrounding territory being heavily damaged. Trees were uprooted and livestock killed.

The cyclone ended its course in that vicinity, it is believed, after creating havoc on farms and in homes where rain, accompanied by the heaviest hail witnessed in the stricken area in years.

Damage from the heavy hail, reports state, was even more destructive than the winds. It drove through windows and house tops with terrific force.

The farm homes just north of here where the cyclone took a toll of heavy damage to life and property present a scene of desolation and suffering.

Rhinehardt Mauerer was perhaps the most seriously injured and added to his suffering of broken ribs and cut face is the thought of an injured wife and baby. Mrs. Maurer and the baby are cut and bruised.

Mrs. Albert Giese was seriously injured when struck by flying timbers. Her husband was cut and bruised while working on their farm. A son was also injured.

Leonard Luehmann was painfully injured and his girl slightly hurt when the automobile in which they were riding overturned and was whirled over and over by the strong winds. Luehmann's hand was nearly cut off by flying glass.

Mrs. Fred Markwardt, an aged woman living on a farm near here, is seriously ill from a heart attack brought about by fright when the twister swept away several small buildings on her property.

The storm, which was aided in its wild destructive antics by the hail which was as large in appearance as baseballs, struck at about 3:30 P. M. Monday.

Doctors and nurses were rushed to the scene of the disaster from Annandale and Kimball immediately and started their work of administering aid to the sufferers.

It is believed there may have been more injuries and possible deaths along the route of the cyclone.

$10,000 DAMAGE NEAR LITTLE FALLS

Little Falls, Minn., May 3.—Communication was disrupted and farm property damaged to the extent of $10,000 when a cyclone ripped through a strip of land a few miles south of here late Monday.

Small farm buildings were completely demolished and several larger structures badly damaged. Trees were uprooted and roofs taken from buildings during the short time the storm lasted. Tele-

LABELLED "THIRD TERM" AND "SPECIAL SESSION"

DEMOCRATS ARE SCANNING PO-LITICAL TRADE-
WINDS

SEEK TO SET UP STORM AGAINST COOLIDGE CANDIDACY FOR THIRD TERM

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 3.—Bundles of trouble, labelled "third term" and "special session" are due to be laid upon President Coolidge's doorstep this summer.

Democratic and irregular republican groups are scanning political trade-winds to find out if they can stir up a whirlwind against the president's possible candidacy for re-election. Several replies are being prepared to the statements of Sen. Fess, republican, Ohio, advancing Mr. Coolidge as the best republican candidate.

Democratic senators, especially those from the flood areas, are anxious for a special session of congress to vote the millions of dollars necessary for flood relief, prevention of pestilence and rehabilitation.

The democrats voiced little resentment at the president's veto of the special session idea, and bent their efforts to getting various government departments to devote all effort to rescue work.

However, many of them believe that these emergency funds will not meet the needs of the 250,000 or more persons made homeless for weeks, perhaps months, and robbed of one to two years' income by the great Mississippi.

Some democrats hold hope that several millions of dollars can be borrowed to help in rehabilitation and disease prevention work as a follow-up to the $10,000,000 sought by the Red Cross from private contributions, such borrowings to be repaid by congress. No steps have been made yet to put such a scheme in effect.

The "third-term" issue has already been raised by Sen. Norris, republican, Nebraska. Among critics of the administration, Sen. LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, and Sen. Borah, republican, Idaho, are understood to hold similar views and they may say so this summer.

One senator said significantly today he expected the third-term issue to be agitated "for some time yet."

KILLED INSTANTLY WHEN STRUCK BY AN AUTOMOBILE

St. Paul, May 3.—(UP)—Mrs. Marie Peterson, 25, was killed instantly when struck by an automobile which did not stop until it crashed into a building here late Monday.

Police today are holding John Luce, driver of the car, without charge.

Three youths who witnessed the accident told police they narrowly escaped being struck by the automobile. They said that after it struck the young woman it ran across the sidewalk and smashed against a house.

The body of Mrs. Peterson was dragged for a distance of about 50 feet, they said.

BUYS 520 ACRES FOR BIG FUR FARM

Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farm Corporation Completes Negotiations

AREA 10 MILES FROM CITY

Brainerd Project to be Known as Brainerd-Oak Lawn Colony

Negotiations for the sale of a 520-acre tract on highway number two ten miles northeast of Brainerd to the Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farm Corporation were completed by the Gould-Gray Co. Monday.

Albert A. Robbins, of Minneapolis, president of the firm, represented the company in completion of the deal. The concern has six licensed fur farms in the state, two of which are near Crosby. Two more colonies are located near St. Cloud. One of the firm's most important projects is located six miles east of St. Paul on the Hudson highway. At this farm, experimental work in the way of care, feeding and handling is carried out and the benefits derived are used at the other projects. The home office is at 546 McKnight building, Minneapolis. James A. Hurley is secretary-treasurer of the firm. L. Lohnhakken, state dairy and food inspector in this district is heavily interested in the firm.

The Brainerd development project, to be known as the Brainerd-Oak Lawn Colony, will cover nearly a section of land, some of which is marshy and low.

According to Mr. Robbins the company's plans call for an investment of from $40,000 to $50,000 in buildings and equipment before the colony is completely under way. From ten to 15 persons will be employed during the first year of operation. R. J. Adams, who now lives on a part of the tract, will be retained as caretaker.

The land is ideally situated for an enterprise of this kind, it was pointed out by Mr. Robbins. The tract can be easily fenced and is located near a main highway. Activities at this colony will be confined to the growing of the herbivorous rather than the carnivorous type of fur-bearer, owing to the fact that the muskrat and other herbivorous animals are not subject to parasitical diseases.

Mr. Robbins, in a statement to the Dispatch, said:

"The Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farm Corporation, headquarters at Minneapolis, has just purchased most of the land in section 36, township 46, range 30, on highway number two.

"This land and marsh has been purchased by us to be developed into what will be known as the 'Brainerd-Oak Lawn Muskrat Colony,' and it is expected by the spring of 1928 that this colony will be in full operation and completely furnished and equipped.

"The company is now developing six other large muskrat ranches in a comparatively near vicinity to Brainerd, which district we feel produces the finest of muskrat pelts. In order to give you an idea of the magnitude of the development of the Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farm Corporation we will cite that over twenty carloads of fencing materials will be consumed this summer in connection with the various operations.

"We look forward to a very acute shortage in muskrat pelts and other furs as well, due to the fact that Louisiana has produced in the past almost fifty per cent of the total production of muskrats that have been consumed by the world as a whole.

"The conditions in Louisiana and the catastrophe which has befallen will kill most of the fur bearers and place that district where it will probably not be a factor in the production of muskrat skins for five or ten years to come.

"An interesting sidelight on the habits of muskrats in Louisiana as compared to its habits in Minnesota will incidentally show why so many million muskrats are now being destroyed in Louisiana due to the flooded conditions. The Louisiana muskrat has become a dry-land animal due to its fear of the alligator, and particularly to the garfish, which infests the entire flooded area.

"It is now predicted by authorities that this catastrophe sorrowful as it may seem to the South, will bring about a highly accelerated condition to our prosperity in Minnesota, due to a rapid expansion of fur farming and muskrat production in particular, which will be carried on throughout northern Minnesota.

"Another very interesting division of the operations of our company is in the breeding and development of fur-bearing rabbits, which we are now producing to imitate very satisfactorily the mink, the silver fox, the ermine, the sable, the silver marten as well as the chinchilla.

"All of the high land in section 36 which is ideal for the production of fur-bearing rabbits will be devoted to producing these various strains, besides whatever area necessary will be used for growing carrots and corn which are necessary for satisfactorily feeding and breeding muskrats under semi-civilized conditions."

In his interview with a representative of the Dispatch Mr. Robbins pointed out that flood conditions in the Mississippi valley and particularly in the state of Louisiana will stimulate the raising of muskrats and other fur-bearing animals in northern states. He stressed the fact that almost 50 per cent of the muskrat pelts produced in the United States come from this one state, and pointed out that a large area has been flooded and the muskrat will be at the mercy of its enemies the garfish and alligator.

Operations at the Brainerd colony will be begun between May 15 and June 1.

Woolsey was dressed in blue crepe romaine, while Mrs. Frank Peters, mother of the groom wore cocoa colored flat crepe. Their corsage bouquets were similar, being of Premier roses, and lavender and white sweet peas.

The wedding breakfast to which 30 guests had been invited was served at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters left for a trip in the northern part of the state and after May 15 will be at home at 3119 Girard Avenue South, Minneapolis.

Mrs. Peters is a sister-in-law of Charles L. Motl, assistant maintenance engineer of the State Highway department, who was formerly county engineer of Crow Wing county. She is a graduate of the MacPhail School of Music in piano, and also of the academic college of the University of Minnesota and since graduation has been a member of the Administrative Staff of the University.

Mr. Peters graduated from the Brainerd high school in 1917 and has since completed a six-year course at the University of Minnesota receiving his B. A. degree from the Academic college in 1923 and his L. L. B. degree from the Law school in 1925. He is a member of the Gamma Eta Gamma Legal fraternity and one of its charter members at the University.

In 1925 Mr. Peters opened his own office for the general practice of law in the Plymouth Building of Minneapolis. In December 1926 he formed a partnership with Harold E. Gilbert also a graduate of the University of Minnesota, Law school and the son of Judge T. O. Gilbert of Willmar, Minn. The new law firm under the name of Peters and Gilbert now has offices at 532 Security Building, Minneapolis.

Peters-Woolsey

Of interest to Brainerd people is the wedding of Miss Adelaide Woolsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Woolsey, 3024 Aldrich Ave. South Minneapolis and John E. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peters of Brainerd. The wedding took place at the church of the Incarnation, Tuesday morning April 26. Monsignor James M. Cleary officiated at 9 o'clock and the Mass was read by Rev. Thomas Sheehy. Palms, ferns, and cathedral candles decorated the church. Mrs. Earl Young, organist, played and also accompanied Mrs. Charles Lacy who sang Gounod's Ave Maria. "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy" by Phelps and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother." The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was the precessional music and the Mendelssohn March was the recessional. John Woolsey and Lawrence Woolsey, cousins of the bride were ushers.

Preceding Miss Woolsey was her sister, Miss Edith Woolsey, maid of honor. She wore a gown of tulle blue crepe romaine with pearl ornaments to hold the drapes of the skirt. Her hat was of blue crepe romaine and narrow velvet ribbon streamers in pastel shades fell from its quilted crown. She carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses, lavender and white sweet peas.

Miss Woolsey was met at the altar by Mr. Peters and his brother, Henry Peters of Brainerd, who attended him as best man. Her gown of white crepe Elizabeth was trimmed in princess lace and pearls. Her rain length veil or rainbow shaded tulle was held with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses, lilies of the valley, and white sweet peas. She also wore a string of pearls and a platinum brooch, gifts of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother, Mrs. D. W.

Woolsey was dressed in blue crepe romaine, while Mrs. Frank Peters, mother of the groom wore cocoa colored flat crepe. Their corsage bouquets were similar, being of Premier roses, and lavender and white sweet peas.

The wedding breakfast to which 30 guests had been invited was served at the home of the bride's parents.

BECAUSE it's the trade-mark of a table salt that women wouldn't be without—Morton's Salt.

This is the salt that won't cake or harden. Even "when it rains, it pours"—because of cube crystals, the one great advance in salt manufacture in centuries. They tumble off one another like dry sand.

Thus Morton's Salt ends the annoyance of caked salt for women and gives them quality and a rare, zesty flavor impossible with ordinary table salts. Get a package at your grocer's and prove what we say.

You can get Morton's either plain or with iodine added for the prevention of goiter. In taste and looks they are exactly alike.

GREAT REQUISITE OF A SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

WHEN Captain William H. Fawcett offered Breezy Point as a summer White House, the Brainerd Dispatch dwelt on the fact that wire and telephone communications were requisites for the Presidential party which would weigh in the scale of selection. And Breezy Point has this and telephone and telegraph companies will add in supplying enlarged facilities, as they may be required.

In "Scoops", published by the International News Service of New York, we come upon an article covering this very feature. It is written by George E. Durno, White House correspondent.

"Some spot in the west," says Durno, "is going to be made internationally famous this summer to the extent of over two million words. That spot will be the location of the summer White House, and that number of words—based on the official telegraph count from Paul Smith's last summer—will be sent out to the newspapers of the world by the correspondents who accompany the President wherever he goes.

"Just where he will summer, President Coolidge has not yet decided, but the correspondents' bag are packed, ready to go anywhere, from Kamchatka to Kalamazoo.

"Wherever the site, there will be first-class facilities to handle press copy. Mr. Coolidge himself will see to that, for to every invitation he has received he has made special inquiry about availability of telegraph wires and accommodations for the newspapermen.

"Unless the telegraph companies can install an up-to-the-minute office and unless there are comfortable hotel accommodations close by, the proffered summer home is automatically discarded as out of the question.

"The President is probably the biggest continual news story in the world, taking into consideration America's pre-eminent place among the nations, and he becomes an even bigger story when out of Washington.

"Unlike many presidents in the past, Mr. Coolidge takes his work with him in the summer. The executive offices are moved wherever he goes, direct telephones are looped in between the summer White House and Washington, and everything functions just as it does in the Capital in the winter.

"Added to the usual stories revolving around the President's official activities, the summer produces a number of human interest and feature stories. Here Mr. Coolidge lends more than a helping hand.

"He knows the value to himself of these features, and he is perfectly willing to go out of his way to create them. He has pitched hay, autographed sap buckets for Henry Ford, fished and done other things to create news with an unusual twist.

"This coming summer he may take up hunting. He no longer has that master of publicity, C. Bascom Slemph, to advise him, but he does very well on his own initiative. Slemph was the genius who conceived the famous hay-pitching in 1924, the presentation of the sap bucket and the visit to the old cheese factory.

"More work is in store for the correspondents as a result of the comings and goings of the great and near-great who are drawn to the summer White House like flies to a jar of honey.

"There will be an endless procession of cabinet officers with official business, industrial and commercial magnates imported for the purpose of handing out "prosperity" stories, senators and congressmen who want to bask in the spotlight through the medium of inspired announcements that "President Coolidge is going to run in 1928 and nobody can beat him," and house guests who will venture opinions on anything about which they are questioned.

"These visitors are always carefully turned over to the newspapermen on orders from Mr. Coolidge. Last year at Paul Smith's, where the summer White House was four miles from the temporary executive offices, the President sent his visitors over to the hotel in a White House automobile, one of his secretaries first apprising the newspapermen of their impending arrival."

Breezy Point Lodge, if it should be selected as the summer White House, would put Brainerd and Crow Wing county in the spotlight of national and international news. It would bring scores of correspondents, the large Presidential party, secret service men, etc. Its value as giving this section publicity is so great that it can hardly be measured. This section would get a place in U. S. history, something like the town or city where some world treaty is consummated.

THE STATUS OF THE FISHING LICENSE

ONE of the last bills signed by Governor Christianson following the adjournment of the Legislature, as commented on by the Walker Pilot, provided that all fishermen take out a license at a cost of fifty cents. For one dollar a license may be secured that will protect the family.

There is much opposition throughout the state to this bill but it was strongly favored by the sportsmen's organizations for the reason that those who hunt large and small game are compelled to take out a license while a very large number of people who do not hunt but do fish get away scot free. Most of the license money derived from the small and large game licenses is used in the propagation of fish. Hunters figure it no more than fair that the fishermen themselves pay a part of the bill.

"The State Game and Fish department was chiefly concerned in that too many outside parties were fishing without taking out a non-resident license, claiming they were residents of the state. The game wardens in most cases could do nothing but take their word for it.

"The resident license fee is expected to bring in a revenue to the department of $200,000, also to very materially swell the revenue from non-resident licenses."

THOSE of us who bitterly complained over our state of inactivity this past winter due to the heavy snows, blocking traffic and paralyzing business, can be very thankful that we do not live in the flood area of the lower Mississippi valley. The property loss in the South occasioned by the flood waters of the great river has run into many millions of dollars and 150,000 people have been made homeless. We of the North cannot conceive of the damage done. Our minds, usually trained by the little dollar and cents column, swelled or depleted by the condition of the highways, find the loss figures of the flood section very stupefying; and they are tremendous, so much so that no one state can stand the strain and conditions on the lower Mississippi which call for federal action and that immediately. The flood of the South this year should not reoccur and will not if the federal government steps in and takes action to prevent a repetition. —Little Falls Daily Transcript.

Vice President—Lawrence Ericson.

Secretary—Marguerite Carmichel.
Treasurer—Mrs. A. C. Weber.

A board of directors was chosen to include the four officers and also Dr. M. H. Carlson, chairman, Vincent Kampmann and Wallace Anderson. Plans for a local tournament are now being made and every effort will be presented to wind up local tournaments and the finals on Memorial Day.

A big membership drive is being conducted under the direction of Miss Marguerite Carmichel, assisted by Floyd Nelson and Katherine Nolan. The senior admission fee will be $1.00 while for Juniors (under 16) the fee will be 50c. It is hoped to get everyone who plays tennis as a member of the association in an effort to make it one of the largest and most progressive athletic organizations in the city.

The main purpose of the meeting was to boost tennis in general and to make the Gregory Park courts one of the real recreational and amusement spots of Brainerd.

BRAINONIAN BANQUET

Annual Social Event of Staff Members Held Last Tuesday Evening

The Brainonian Banquet, annual social event for staff members, was held last Tuesday evening in the room adjoining that of the domestic science department. The table was fitted with a center piece of pink sweet peas—there were nut cups done in blue and place cards with very queer names upon them. The John Henrys were all written backward for no reason at all—except, perhaps, to keep one wondering and to create merriment—and they did both.

The menu: roast beef, mashed potatoes, gravy, cranberry jelly, fruit salad, Parker House rolls, coffee and tea, ice cream and wafers.

Marguerite O'Brien was chairman of the refreshment committee. Dorothy Hanson and Rachel Evans helped in the serving of the repast.

Raymond Anderson was toastmaster—his witty introductions kept the assemblage in gales of laughter. Speakers of the evening were Miss Tornstrom, Milford Downie, Carl Peterson and Donald McNamara. Their speeches were more or less impromptu but nevertheless very good, ranging from the completely humorous to those containing sound journalistic advice.

After the toasts and chaffing and the singing of the Staff Song, the banquet was pronounced adjourned. Some immediately left the building—it seemed as if they had been waiting for this and the others—those insisting on loitering were button-holed for dishwashing and general clean-up duty. And thus it ends.

The banquet is the only formal event the staff has during the year—staff meetings on Wednesday mornings are the only other gatherings, but I rather think both are equally appreciated.

Commercial Club Meeting

A regular meeting of the Commercial club was held Wednesday evening. At the short business meeting a picnic was decided to be held in three weeks at Birchdale. The following program was given:

A selection entitled "Casey Jones" was played on the phonograph. Instead of a trio which should have been given.

A charming dance was given by Eva Cunningham.

A talk was next by Judge L. B. Kinder on the advantages of the commercial world. He stated that no matter what your work may be if you put all your interest in it you would make good. He also gave a few points on success, stressing that most successful business men had at one time been stenographers or bookkeepers.

Billy Marshall gave a mouth organ solo which received much applause. The remainder of the evening was spent in games, after which a fine lunch was served.

Badges Awarded

First badges and certificates from the Playground and Recreational Association of America were awarded to the following girls:

Onalle Lewis.
Marie Gaboury
Alice Kvalquist
Elma Niemi.
Helen Bane.
Genevieve Jenkins.

The grade school girls should provide the public with an interesting track meet this spring since they are under the capable coaching staff of some of the girl athletes of the high school.

These girls will supervise the following:

Lincoln—Irene Molstad.
Lowell—Alta Storm.
Harrison—Helen Beggs.
Whittier—Charlotte Peters.

WHO? WHAT? WHERE?

It has been observed that several of the high school girls play tennis every morning in the park from 6 to 8 o'clock. Tennis is an enjoyable sport and especially so on such beautiful spring mornings as we now have.

The biology students are keeping a list of birds they have seen. A long list has been made and may be seen in the biology room on the front board.

INDIAN CANTATA

Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs to Present "The Mound Builders"

The most ambitious event of the high school glee clubs this year is to be a cantata instead of an operetta. Miss Rickard chose the very colorful Indian story entitled, "The Mound Builders," in which both the words and the music are typical of the life of the early Redmen. The work of Mr. Bliss among the Indians is so well known that those who listen to his music are transported to the primitive days of the race and listen to the notes of the tom-tom or live again the life of the natives. The boys' and girls' glee clubs have put much time and effort into the cantata, and with the help of the orchestra and the very excellent training of Miss Rickard, the performance should be thoroughly worth while. It is to be put on in the Methodist church at eight o'clock on Thursday, May 5th, with the admission charge of thirty-five cents.

The Year Around

When Autumn comes the leaves turn brown.
And in a month they tumble down
To cover the earth with a blanket warm,
To keep the little flowers from harm.

The Winter arrives with her winter gale
And blows snow into every nook and dale.
Jack Frost paints pictures very plain
On large glass doors and window panes.

Then Spring arrives with sunshine and flowers—
To gladden and cheer each weary hour;
The flowers and grass are a wonderful sight;
And over the world the sun shines bright.

Then Summer is here with work and fun,
The farmers work from sun to sun.
The harvest is over, and the fruit is ripe,
And everything gay and bright.

ORVAL HERINGTON.

Forestry Week Services

We were nobly entertained last Friday by a select group of artists acquired (we know) for the occasion. One we are particularly proud (and envious) of. Miss Tornstrom's gift of narration has hitherto been hidden from the student body, as a whole, so it came as a distinct surprise when it was demonstrated, the other afternoon. (I think she'd better be careful though, because if she gives us many more of those wonderful descriptions of the beauties she saw on her canoe trip last summer, some of her pupils are likely to just leave for the North woods and forget about school for awhile. I know I'd like to.) There wasn't time, though, to give an entire description of her trip for the Macalester Glee club arrived, and were given the floor. I believe Miss Tornstrom's speech fully fulfilled its purpose; for after hearing a description of the wonderful trees in Canada, and which we might have, there is certainly no one who will not, in the future, be more careful about limiting the destruction caused by the common enemy, fire.

The Macalester Glee club, consisting of twenty-two young men, showed their splendid voices and accurate timing to fine advantage in the songs they sang. We all fully appreciated their efforts and, I am sure, gained a much better idea of the beauty of unified and perfected male voices. As an encore a quartet sang a lively and humorous song; and a soberly humorous recital was given by Professor Hall.

As completion to the program, prizes were awarded to the winners of the Constitution Essay contest—Marian Liners, Elma Mustonen and Jean Clarkson surpassing in order named by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. J. A. Hayes presented the girl's with the prizes.

Teacher (in Ancient History): In what battle was General Tyler killed?

TRACK MEET

First B. H. S. Interclass Track Meet to be Held on Thursday and Friday, May 5-6

The Blue and White will hold its interclass track meet on Thursday and Friday, May 5-6. Each class had a little over a week to practice in and much competition is expected because of the fact that the material this year is so evenly divided. This is the first year that a track meet has been held among the classes and a great deal of interest is being aroused.

A class pennant will be awarded the winners, thus all classes will be working hard to put the best team possible in the field.

The events include the following: 50 yard dash, 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, half mile, 120 yard low and high hurdles, half mile relay (four men running 220 each), and the field events—shot put, discus, javelin, high jump, broad jump, pole vault.

Two men may be entered in each event with the exception of low and high hurdles, 50 and 100 yard dash.

The officials earnestly urge that each class put forth their utmost ability to be represented as well as possible.

Mrs. Thabes Gives Talk

Mrs. Thabes, who is well known for her knowledge of birds, gave talks on birds and bird migration at the high school last Wednesday for the benefit of the Biology classes. To add interest to her speech she showed slides which were sent from the University of Minnesota belonging to Dr. Roberts. A few slides showed maps indicating the migration routes of birds. A very interesting one was that of the Golden Plover, which flies from 2,400 to 2,500 miles over sea without stopping unless driven by storms to the Antilles. These birds are graceful and their plumage is very beautiful. About two months before migration they go to the eastern provinces of Canada to fatten, after which time they are quite ready to start on their long journey. The young plovers, however, do not take the same route as the matured ones. Their course is over the Mississippi valley and across the Gulf of Mexico.

Another very interesting bird is the Arctic Tern which makes a round trip from the Arctic to the Antarctic region. It flies 11,000 miles to its summer home and also 11,000 to its winter home, altogether covering 22,000 miles a year. This bird is in the daylight more than any other bird, which averages eight months a year.

The migration route maps showed that all of the birds take a different route coming back from the one going south. They usually go down through the eastern states and come back to us through central states.

These were only a few of the many interesting things that Mrs. Thabes told the classes. The study of birds should be very much more fascinating now than before.

Minimum Essentials Tests

The last set of Minimum Essentials Tests was written last Tuesday. The Seniors have written them for the last time while the under classmen may expect them again next year. There are four sets written during the year. They represent what should be the minimum of knowledge of English grammar, spelling and punctuation. They are given in most of the high schools in the State and the schools are rated on their standing. Brainerd has been steadily rising in the lists since the beginning of the year—the average this time is the highest this year. The median for the entire school was 88 in the first test and 91 in the second.

Miss Schow's Mother Dies

Miss Schow was suddenly called away Thursday morning by the death of her mother. She left immediately for her home in St. Paul. Death came very suddenly and unexpectedly. The student body as a whole and especially her pupils wish to extend their sympathy.

Announcement

The weekly Brainonian is now under new management. The former editor, not, of course, because he thought he wasn't doing very well, nor because he is lazy, has passed out of the newspaper firmament, so to speak, and a new editor has continued business at the old stand; in fact, he has put out this issue. The new editor is Milford Downie, who assures us that the paper will not suffer from the change, and we think with the support of the high school students, he will undoubtedly, with his new ideas and ways of management, improve it to a great extent. Ye former editor is putting in his time and efforts into getting the annual out before June.

"Where is the sponge I asked you to buy at the store?"
"I couldn't see a good one. They all had holes in them!"

Teacher: William, give me a sentence using the word "avaunt" correctly.
William (after silent thought): Avaunt what avaut when avaut it.

Mr. Newlywed: Good gracious, dear, what a long pie! It is surely too big for just two.
Mrs. Newlywed: "I'm sorry, Carl, but I couldn't get any shorter rharb anywhere."

CIVICS CLASSES
VISIT PAPER MILL

Monday's event was a success from both the educational and social point of view. At three thirty about fifty people, composed of civics students and a few members of the faculty, were "piled" into cars. The main object of the trip was to increase the knowledge of the students in regard to the occupations and enterprises of Brainerd by going through the paper mill.

After going through the paper mill every one of the party gathered again at Gilbert Lake. No picnic supper could have been more delicious than the one enjoyed there.

Monday was rather a gloomy day; it could have been called "Blue Monday." The students forgot that and would have made any one there forget too. Games were played and enjoyed both before and after the delicious supper. The faithful cars (Fords mostly) transported the crowd home with awakened interest and joy in the study of Civics.

How Do We Tell Them Apart

I
The women are cutting their dresses To look just the same as the men, They have thrown away skirts, And have taken shirts—
And collars, and neckties; and then The men have begun wearing Knickers, with hose of elaborate art. They radiate bliss, but the problem is this,
How are we to tell them apart?

II
One day when I saw a young lady Drop a handkerchief, quickly I ran And returned it to her, with my heart all astir;
But lo, when I spoke, 'twas a man. Then I slapped a young man on the shoulder, And he turned with a manner most tart.
'Twas a lady attired as the fashion required, Say, how do we tell them apart?

B. H. S. 5, C. I. 9

The blue and white baseball team lost their first baseball game to Crosby-Ironton last Saturday on the latter's field. The game was very loose throughout and many errors occurred. C. I. taking home the bacon.

In the first inning Brainerd started things going and with the aid of two long drives by Orth and Fitzharris was able to score 3 runs before their opposition could get started. From then on the locals went to pieces and C. I. had scored 9 runs to the locals five when the nine innings had come to a close.

Swanson pitched a fine game for the locals, allowing only a few hits. Barnes led the batting average with 3 hits and 1 walk. Swanson got two hits, and Orth and Fitzharris each contributed long drives but were put out before reaching the home plate.

Brainerd plays Aitkin next Saturday and it is hoped that a large crowd will be present to witness the contest.

University Scholarships

The University of Minnesota offers five scholarships of one hundred dollars for those who successfully make their requirements. These requirements are: they must be in the highest group in the graduating class, must be certified by the high school principal and must take a two day examination at the university.

Three of the Senior class went down last Wednesday. They were Marjorie Cunningham, Anna Nelson and Raymond Anderson. They report very interesting but difficult examinations. The result will not be known for several weeks.

BRAINONIAN BANQUET

Annual Social Event of Staff Members Held Last Tuesday Evening

The Brainonian Banquet, annual social event for staff members, was held last Tuesday evening in the room adjoining that of the domestic science department. The table was fitted with a center piece of pink sweet peas—there were nut cups done in blue and place cards with very queer names upon them. The John Henrys were all written backward for no reason at all—except, perhaps, to keep one wondering and to create merriment—and they did both.

The menu: roast beef, mashed potatoes, gravy, cranberry jelly, fruit salad, Parker House rolls, coffee and tea, ice cream and wafers.

Marguerite O'Brien was chairman of the refreshment committee. Dorothy Hanson and Rachel Evans helped in the serving of the repast.

Raymond Anderson was toastmaster—his witty introductions kept the assembly in gales of laughter. Speakers of the evening were Miss Tornstrom, Milford Downie, Carl Peterson and Donald McNamara. Their speeches were more or less impromptu but nevertheless very good, ranging from the completely humorous to those containing sound journalistic advice.

After the toasts and chaffing and the singing of the Staff Song, the banquet was pronounced adjourned. Some immediately left the building—it seemed as if they had been waiting for this and the others—those insisting on loitering were buttonholed for dishwashing and general clean-up duty. And thus it ends.
The banquet is the only formal event the staff has during the year—staff meetings on Wednesday mornings are the only other gatherings, but I rather think both are equally appreciated.

Commercial Club Meeting

A regular meeting of the Commercial club was held Wednesday evening. At the short business meeting a picnic was decided to be held in three weeks at Birchdale. The following program was given:

A selection entitled "Casey Jones" was played on the phonograph, instead of a trio which should have been given.

A charming dance was given by Eva Cunningham.
A talk was next by Judge L. B. Kinder on the advantages of the commercial world. He stated that no matter what your work may be if you put all your interest in it you would make good. He also gave a few points on success, stressing that most successful business men had at one time been stenographers or bookkeepers.

Billy Marshall gave a mouth organ solo which received much applause. The remainder of the evening was spent in games, after which a fine lunch was served.

Badges Awarded

First badges and certificates from the Playground and Recreational Association of America were awarded to the following girls:

Onalle Lewis.
Marie Gaboury.
Alice Kyallquist.
Elma Niemi.
Helen Bane.
Genevieve Jenkins.

The grade school girls should provide the public with an interesting track meet this spring since they are under the capable coaching staff of some of the girl athletes of the high school.

These girls will supervise the following:
Lincoln—Irene Molstad.
Lowell—Alta Storm.
Harrison—Helen Beggs.
Whittier—Charlotte Peters.

WHO? WHAT? WHERE?

It has been observed that several of the high school girls play tennis every morning in the park from 6 to 8 o'clock. Tennis is an enjoyable sport and especially so on such beautiful spring mornings as we now have.

The biology students are keeping a list of birds they have seen. A long list has been made and may be seen in the biology room on the front board.

INDIAN CANTATA

Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs to Present "The Mound Builders"

The most ambitious event of the high school glee clubs this year is to be a cantata instead of an operetta. Miss Rickard chose the very colorful Indian story entitled, "The Mound Builders," in which both the words and the music are typical of the life of the early Redmen. The work of Mr. Bliss among the Indians is so well known that those who listen to his music are transported to the primitive days of the race and listen to the notes of the tom-tom or live again the life of the natives. The boys' and girls' glee clubs have put much time and effort into the cantata, and with the help of the orchestra and the very excellent training of Miss Rickard, the performance should be thoroughly worth while. It is to be put on in the Methodist church at eight o'clock on Thursday, May 5th, with the admission charge of thirty-five cents.

The Year Around

When Autumn comes the leaves turn brown.
And in a month they tumble down.
To cover the earth with a blanket warm,
To keep the little flowers from harm.

The Winter arrives with her winter gale
And blows snow into every nook and dale.
Jack Frost paints pictures very plain
On large glass doors and window panes.

Then Spring arrives with sunshine and flowers—
To gladden and cheer each weary hour;
The flowers and grass are a wonderful sight;
And over the world the sun shines bright.

Then Summer is here with work and fun,
The farmers work from sun to sun.
The harvest is over, and the fruit is ripe,
And everything gay and bright.

Forestry Week Services

We were nobly entertained last Friday by a select group of artists acquired (we know) for the occasion. One we are particularly proud (and envious) of, Miss Tornstrom's gift of narration has hitherto been hidden from the student body, as a whole, so it came as a distinct surprise when it was demonstrated, the other afternoon. (I think she'd better be careful though, because if she gives us many more of those wonderful descriptions of the beauties she saw on her canoe trip last summer, some of her pupils are likely to just leave for the North woods and forget about school for awhile. I know I'd like to.) There wasn't time, though, to give an entire description of her trip for the Macalester Glee club arrived, and were given the floor. I believe Miss Tornstrom's speech fully fulfilled its purpose; for after hearing a description of the wonderful trees in Canada, and which we might have, there is certainly no one who will not, in the future, be more careful about limiting the destruction caused by the common enemy, fire.

The Macalester Glee club, consisting of twenty-two young men, showed their splendid voices and accurate timing to fine advantage in the songs they sang. We all fully appreciated their efforts and, I am sure, gained a much better idea of the beauty of unified and perfected male voices. As an encore a quartet sang a lively and humorous song; and a soberly humorous recital was given by Professor Hall.

As completion to the program, prizes were awarded to the winners of the Constitution Essay contest—Marian Liners, Elma Mustonen and Jean Clarkson surpassing in order named by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. J. A. Hayes presented the girls with the prizes.

Teacher (in Ancient History): In what battle was General Tyler killed?
Pupil: In the last battle he fought.

C. Z.: "Say, Miss O'Brien, how do you translate this 'vincite'?"
Miss O'Brien: "Have your own way."
C. Z.: "Huh?"
Miss O'Brien: "Have your own way."
C. Z.: "You mean that I should translate it the way I want?"

Senior Meeting

The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding the memorial to be left to the high school by the class. A committee was appointed to look into the matter of oil paintings as a memorial. The boys were dismissed and the meeting was turned over to the girls. The battle waged again, and after much discussion it was finally decided to wear either long or short sleeves in the graduation dresses, and they are to be one inch longer than usually worn.

It was decided finally after some discussion that Rev. Long is to deliver the Baccalaureate address on May 22 at the high school.

Autumn

Fair is the autumn's silver moon,
Fair is the royal purple noon
Of all the years glad glory;
Now let cares drift away
While each wonder working day,
Tells to us its story.

Scarfs of gold and crimson rest
On each mountain's plumbed crest.
In a wondrous splendor;
While o'er all earth's lovely things,
Nature spreads its gauzy wings
As of each most tender.

Oh, if the autumn of our days,
Finds out the soft and mellow haze
Our fading joys concealing;
Then will our hearts be full of peace
And every hour bring rich increase.

Announcement

The weekly Brainonian is now under new management. The former editor, not of course, because he thought he wasn't doing very well, nor because he is lazy, has passed out of the newspaper firmament, so to speak, and a new editor has continued business at the old stand; in fact, he has put out this issue. The new editor is Milford Downie, who assures us that the paper will not suffer from the change, and we think with the support of the high school students, he will undoubtedly, with his new ideas and ways of management, improve it to a great extent. Ye former editor is putting in his time and efforts into getting the annual out before June.

How Do We Tell Them Apart

The women are cutting their dresses to look just the same as the men. They have thrown away skirts, and have taken shirts—
And collars, and neckties; and then The men have begun wearing Knickers, with hose of elaborate art. They radiate bliss, but the problem is this,
How are we to tell them apart?

One day when I saw a young lady Drop a handkerchief, quickly I ran And returned it to her, with my heart all astir;
But lo, when I spoke, 'twas a man. Then I slapped a young man on the shoulder, And he turned with a manner most tart.
'Twas a lady attired as the fashion required,
Say, how do we tell them apart?

The blue and white baseball team lost their first baseball game to Crosby-Ironton last Saturday on the latter's field. The game was very loose throughout and many errors occurred. C.-I. taking home the bacon.

In the first inning Brainerd started things going and with the aid of two long drives by Orth and Fitzharris was able to score 3 runs before their opposition could get started. From then on the locals went to pieces and C.-I. had scored 9 runs to the locals five when the nine innings had come to a close.

Swanson pitched a fine game for the locals, allowing only a few hits. Barnes led the batting average with 3 hits and 1 walk.
Swanson got two hits, and Orth and Fitzharris each contributed long drives but were put out before reaching the home plate.

Brainerd plays Aitkin next Saturday and it is hoped that a large crowd will be present to witness the contest.

HUGO A. KAATZ IS HONORED

Given Very Pleasant Surprise at Improvement League Meeting

SERVES 10 YEARS SECRETARY

Speakers Call Attention to Faithful Service in Many Spheres

Hugo A. Kaatz was given a very pleasant surprise last evening at the last meeting of the N. E. Brainerd Improvement League before the summer vacation. Mrs. F. M. Kelly, in a few well chosen words praised the faithful and untiring services of Mr. Kaatz and spoke of his ten years of service as secretary of the League. Mr. Kaatz was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

Past President Mrs. J. H. Herbert, wrote an appropriate poem of her own composition on the black board which read as follows:

Here's to our secretary, long may he reign,
And many good things for our ward obtain.

Kindly thoughts the league brings him tonight,
And wish him a future happy and bright.

As he grows older may his burdens grow light
Three cheers for Hugo, our tried and true guide.

Zealous and faithful and all else beside.

It was also Mr. Kaatz's birthday anniversary and he responded by thanking those present and told of how he had always enjoyed his work and endeavored to do his best to boost the welfare of the ward.

Other speakers called attention to the four years that Mr. Kaatz has served as a member of the Park board and congratulated him on his service.

The league in its business session, decided to ask the city council to repair the railing on the fill which is in need of repair and at present is in a very dangerous condition.

Reports were made on the recent Paint-Up and Clean-Up week and instances related where noticeable improvements had been effected. An especially noteworthy instance was the removal of rubbish from near the entrance to Evergreen cemetery. The League then adopted a vote of thanks to the teachers of the Lowell school for extending their co-operation during the campaign, in getting the school grounds cleaned. The children did very effective work.

A report was also made that Miles Guin of the N. E. Auto Wrecking Co. is making every effort to get his lots into a more presentable condition in a short time. It was also made known that the plant has grown to considerable importance, furnishing employment to several men.

The League agreed to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations in putting on a favorable exhibit at the Armory in Minneapolis for the League of Municipalities which will meet June 14, 15 and 16.

It was reported that the work of putting water in the Mill district would start around the first of June.

The League will co-operate with the Lowell Parent-Teacher's association which will present a May festival in the near future.

The gathering adjourned at a late hour until the next meeting which will be called at the order of the president.

D. LEGATES AT SCOUT PARLEY

S. R. Adair, President of Scout Area, and B. Perry Newton at Winona, Rochester

400 DELEGATES PRESENT

Chief Scout Executive James E. West of New York Delivered Address

S. R. Adair, president of the Crow Wing Area Council of Boy Scouts and B. Perry Newton, scout executive have returned from Winona and Rochester where they attended a regional conference of Scout executives.

The conference was attended by over 400 men interested in Scouting including Chief Scout Executive James E. West of New York.

The theme of the conference was rural scouting which was discussed in detail. Rural scouting makes a farm lad eligible to be a Boy Scout, who, if he is a "lone scout" receives his instructions and awards by mail.

E. H. Paiken, formerly of Pequot, is the director of rural scouting for region 10 and will be remembered as the assistant camp director of the local summer camp last year and also a radio speaker on Scouting.

Reasons were outlined for developing rural scouting and it was pointed out that 65 percent of boy scout age are living in small villages and on farms. It is interesting to note that scouting is the only boy's work at the present time which successfully serves small towns and villages. Modern farm machinery and improvements have served to materially shorten a farm boy's working day and scouting would be an important factor in his leisure hours.

At the closing banquet held Thursday evening in the Kahler hotel, Dr. Charles Mayo of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester gave an inspiring talk.

Mr. Kaatz was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

Past President Mrs. J. H. Herbert, wrote an appropriate poem of her own composition on the black board which read as follows:

Here's to our secretary, long may he reign,
And many good things for our ward obtain.

Kindly thoughts the league brings him tonight,
And wish him a future happy and bright.

As he grows older may his burdens grow light
Three cheers for Hugo, our tried and true guide,
Zealous and faithful and all else beside.

It was also Mr. Kaatz's birthday anniversary and he responded by thanking those present and told of how he had always enjoyed his work and endeavored to do his best to boost the welfare of the ward.

Other speakers called attention to the four years that Mr. Kaatz has served as a member of the Park board and congratulated him on his service.

The league in its business session, decided to ask the city council to repair the railing on the fill which is in need of repair and at present is in a very dangerous condition.

Reports were made on the recent Paint-Up and Clean-Up week and instances related where noticeable improvements had been effected. An especially noteworthy instance was the removal of rubbish from near the entrance to Evergreen cemetery. The League also attended a vote of thanks to the teachers of the Lowell school for extending their co-operation during the campaign, in getting the school grounds cleaned. The children did very effective work.

A report was also made that Miles Guin of the N. E. Auto Wrecking Co. is making every effort to get his lots into a more presentable condition in a short time. It was also made known that the plant has grown to considerable importance, furnishing employment to several men.

The League agreed to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations in putting on a favorable exhibit at the Armory in Minneapolis for the League of Municipalities which will meet June 14, 15 and 16.

It was reported that the work of putting water in the Mill district would start around the first of June. The League will co-operate with the Lowell Parent-Teacher's association which will present a May festival in the near future.

The gathering adjourned at a late hour until the next meeting which will be called at the order of the president.

DELEGATES AT SCOUT PARLEY

S. R. Adair, President of Scout Area, and B. Perry Newton at Winona, Rochester

400 DELEGATES PRESENT

Chief Scout Executive James E. West of New York Delivered Address

S. R. Adair, president of the Crow Wing Area Council of Boy Scouts and B. Perry Newton, scout executive have returned from Winona and Rochester where they attended a regional conference of Scout executives.

The conference was attended by over 400 men interested in Scouting including Chief Scout Executive James E. West of New York.

The theme of the conference was rural scouting which was discussed in detail. Rural scouting makes a farm lad eligible to be a Boy Scout, who, if he is a "lone scout" receives his instructions and awards by mail.

E. H. Paiken, formerly of Pequot, is the director of rural scouting for region 10 and will be remembered as the assistant camp director of the local summer camp last year and also a radio speaker on Scouting.

Reasons were outlined for developing rural scouting and it was pointed out that 65 percent of boy scout age are living in small villages and on farms. It is interesting to note that scouting is the only boy's work at the present time which successfully serves small towns and villages. Modern farm machinery and improvements have served to materially shorten a farm boy's working day and scouting would be an important factor in his leisure hours.

The Big Capacity MAYTAG Tub Makes Spring Cleaning easy

THE Maytag's satin-smooth cast-aluminum tub has an exceptionally large capacity. There is ample room for heavy blankets, draperies, curtains, fluffy rugs, and other bulky things that you want washed during spring cleaning time before you store them away.

The tub is heat-retaining—keeps water hot for an entire washing. Through adjustable legs, one of many Maytag comfort-giving features, the washer is easily raised or lowered to suit your height. The tub drains and cleans itself in 30 seconds after the washing is done.

The famous Maytag wringer sets close to the water level—does away with the lifting of heavy wet pieces and automatically adjusts itself to a heavy blanket or sheer handkerchief and wrings both equally dry.

Deferred Payments
You'll Never Miss

Phone the Maytag Dealer

Use a Maytag next washday without obligation or expense. Wash big tubfuls of ordinary clothes in 3 to 7 minutes. Wash even collar and cuff edges without hand-rubbing. Do a whole washing in one hour. After you have once used the Maytag you will easily understand why it is the world's most-wanted washer—why it won World Leadership in less than 600 days. Try the Maytag—if it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

THE STORY SO FAR

The Minton family is dissolved by divorce, and Amariyllis entrusted to the care of servants, grows hungry for real love. She runs away from her chauffeur and finds a wonderful garden where a boy is playing on a violin. She makes friends with the boy, who, when he hears her story, agrees to hide her till her people learn to miss her. After arranging with a French maid to take care of them, he teaches her a lot of wonderful games, and Amariyllis is happy for the first time. She finds flowers for him, and he makes them into dolls.

Next the boy made an Italian lady with red and yellow holly hocks, all gay and gorgeous. They cut away all the green from a long blade of grass to make her a sash of yellow. It was wonderful work, so dainty and so careful he had to be. When the little Italian lady was finished and put in her glass of water to live and the boy asked what kind of a lady she wanted next, Amariyllis thought awhile and then she made a popular suggestion.

"Make me," she said. "Make just me!"

The boy looked at her for a long time and then he said: "Little Hungry Heart, you are so sweet there isn't a flower in the garden sweet enough to make you with, but if you are sure of what you want I will try. But this time I must be very careful; I must do something very different. You hunt through the striped grass and see how near you can come to finding blades that are all white, because they are the only things for sashes and ribbons. Hunt away back in the shade where it is damp and dark. The blades come whiter there because there isn't much light. Then search the honeysuckles and see if you can find some, back in the dark, that are whiter, too."

Then the boy went to one side of the garden and from tall stems he cut white lilies, Madonna lilies that were like wax. He went to the rose bushes and cut petals of silk.

Little Hungry Heart thought that over only a second. It was so reasonable. The boy was so convincing. She knew that he would do exactly what he said he would. His lips were medicine on her little bruised feet and on unloved hair and on her hands, and when she made him kiss her, she adored his light, gentle kisses. She would not have cared if he had made them lots longer, and lots hotter, and much harder. She had wanted to be loved so very badly for such a long time that she did not care how much in earnest any one became about loving her. She wanted to be loved until it hurt her.

So she said: "My name is Amariyllis."

The boy studied her a long time. "That's a funny name for you," he said. "It's a beautiful name, and if I had known your name was Amariyllis—"

He took her head very carefully between his hands and turned it around until she could see the far side of the garden. And there, on a tall, slender stem, was a head of lilies bigger than the Madonna lilies and red, as red as any red ribbon you ever saw, or the reddest bird, as red as the blood that seeped if you let the knife slip and cut your finger playing. "Mumble-ty-ty," wonderful red velvet flowers laughing on their stem. John Guido said they were the only red flowers in the garden; they were so precious they had to be taken in the cellar in the winter. And their name was Amariyllis. She had been named for the red flowers, and John Guido had gone and made her out of the white flowers of the blessed Madonna. Now he would have to go to work and make her all over with an Amariyllis lily. He said, too, that the red lily was the flower of love because red was the love color. He said that on his violin, when he began to practice, he would play for her a dance of the Fairies, the loveliest dance of all dances, that was her minuet because its name was "Amariyllis." When they finished the gorgeous

Marie cooked a fine supper for them.

For Amariyllis he did not use a green grape for a head. He tucked her behind the syriaga bush all nestled down and solemnly sworn across her heart not to move for fear a policeman might see her, while he raced through the garden and down the path through the meadow and came back with white balls from the button-bushes all golden with pollen over them. With his knife he worked the pollen away from the space for a face. He worked in a teeny bit of blue from the ragged robins to make eyes, and he worked in a touch of red from a salvia to make a mouth. The pollen he left for hair. Then with the white lilies and the rose petals and the button-bush head and the fady honeysuckles for sleeves and the white, striped grass for a sash, he made the handsomest little lady that ever was made in all this world from broom straws and green grape bodies and button heads from button-bushes, and lilies.

Amariyllis clapped her hands and patted him and kissed his cheeks and told him that she loved him better than all the world, she loved him better than anything up in the sky or down on the earth. Better than her hands, or her feet, or her eyes, she loved him.

The boy worked very soberly, and constantly watched down the footpath into the meadow and across the garden to the corner of the house, so he would not lose her. In the back of his head he determined that he would not go out on the road in three days and tell some one passing in a car that there was a little lost girl at his house, as he had thought at first he would do perhaps the next day. She might stay just as long as ever he could hide her because never in his life had he done anything that he so loved to do as he loved taking care of Amariyllis. She was a little Hungry Heart. She had not told him stories about herself. Hunger was back deep in her eyes. Hunger was in her little hot, clutching hands. Hunger was on her thirsty lips. She was a little Hungry Heart, but it almost broke his tender boy-heart to call her that.

So he said to her: "If I promise sure and certain to hide you as long as I can, to make them hunt and hunt until they get good and ready to love you hard, and to be tickled to pieces to see you come home again, will you tell me what your really-true name is?"

red lady and put her in her tumbler of water, they went up to the house carrying all of the ladies very carefully, and put them in a cool place on the back porch.

Marie came, a French Marie, from the market gardeners across the fence, and cooked a fine supper and put it on the table on the porch for them, with the lily-ladies for a centerpiece. They were so pretty, Marie talked floods of French nonsense to them as she served the children. She told John Guido to call her when he was ready, and she would come and put her to bed. She would bring her nightgown and sleep on the davenport close beside her so if she wanted a drink in the night she would be there to give it to her.

All the world was lovely with the delicate, fragrant loveliness of June, with blooming old syringas and cheery baby orioles, and fat robins, and sweet as honey with red clovers. There was not a thing to bother about; there was not a thing to trouble about because when she had finished her supper Amariyllis went and stood beside John Guido's chair. He put an arm around her and she climbed up on the braces to lay her face up against his cheek. Sometimes he slipped his best crusty bite into her mouth, and then she put one into his. And because she loved him so, Amariyllis forgot that her mouth might not be clean, so she made his cheek all sneaky when she kissed it. But he did not care a bit. He only laughed. When it came to kisses he was a little Hungry Heart himself.

And when she said: "John Guido, if I stay here as many as three days, by the end of that time will you love me a teeny bit?"

John Guido laid down his fork. He took his napkin and wiped her mouth carefully and then he wiped his own mouth.

He said: "Look here, Amariyllis. Down in the brook the very first minute that I saw your yaller head, your taffy molasses head, and your big blue eyes, your corn-downer eyes, and your pink cheeks, your wild sweetbriar cheeks, I loved you, and I have been loving you harder every minute ever since, and the thing that's going to almost kill me is going to be the time when your father comes and finds you, and takes you away from me."

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urines get cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

From the famous photoplay, "The Magic Garden."

THE STORY SO FAR
The Minton family is dissolved by divorce, and Amariyllis entrusted to the care of servants, grows hungry for real love. She runs away from her chateau and finds a wonderful garden where a boy is playing on a violin. She makes friends with the boy, who, when he hears her story, agrees to hide her. After arranging with a French maid to take care of them, he teaches her a lot of wonderful games, and Amariyllis is happy for the first time. She finds flowers for him, and he makes them into dolls.

Next the boy made an Italian lady with red and yellow hollyhocks, all gay and gorgeous. They cut away all the green from a long blade of grass to make her a sash of yellow. It was wonderful work, so dainty and so careful he had to be. When the little Italian lady was finished and put in her glass of water to live and the boy asked what kind of a lady she wanted next, Amariyllis thought awhile and then she made a popular suggestion. "Make me," she said. "Make just me!"

The boy looked at her for a long time and then he said: "Little Hungry Heart, you are so sweet there isn't a flower in the garden sweet enough to make you with, but if you are sure of what you want I will try. But this time I must be very careful; I must do something very different. You hunt through the striped grass and see how near you can come to finding blades that are all white, because they are the only things for sashes and ribbons. Hunt away back in the shade where it is damp and dark. The blades come whiter there because there isn't much light. Then search the honeysuckles and see if you can find some, back in the dark, that are whiter, too."

Then the boy went to one side of the garden and from tall stalks he cut white lilies, Madonna lilies that were like wax. He went to the rose bushes and cut petals of silk.

For Amariyllis he did not use a green grape for a head. He tucked her behind the syringa bush all nestled down and made a mouth across her heart not to move for fear a policeman might see her, while he raced through the garden and down the path through the meadow and came back with white balls from the button-bushes all golden with pollen over them. With his knife he worked the pollen away from the space for a face. He worked in a teeny bit of blue from the ragged robins to make eyes, and he worked in a touch of red from a salvia to make a mouth. The pollen he left for hair. Then with the white lilies and the rose petals and the button-bush head and the fady honeysuckles for sleeves and the white, striped grass for a sash, he made the handsomest little lady that ever was made in all this world from broom straws and green grape bodies and button heads from button-bushes, and lilies.

Amariyllis clapped her hands and patted him and kissed his cheeks and told him that she loved him better than all the world, she loved him better than anything up in the sky or down on the earth. Better than her hands, or her feet, or her eyes, she loved him.

The boy worked very soberly, and constantly watched down the footpath into the meadow and across the garden to the corner of the house, so he would not lose her. In the back of his head he determined that he would not go out on the road in three days and let some one passing in a car that there was a little lost girl at his house, as he had thought at first he would do perhaps the next day. She might stay just as long as ever he could hide her because never in his life had he done anything that he so loved to do as he loved taking care of Amariyllis. She was a little Hungry Heart. She had not told him stories about herself. Hunger was back deep in her eyes. Hunger was in her little hot, clutching hands. Hunger was on her thirsty lips. She was a little Hungry Heart, but it almost broke his tender boy-heart to call her that.

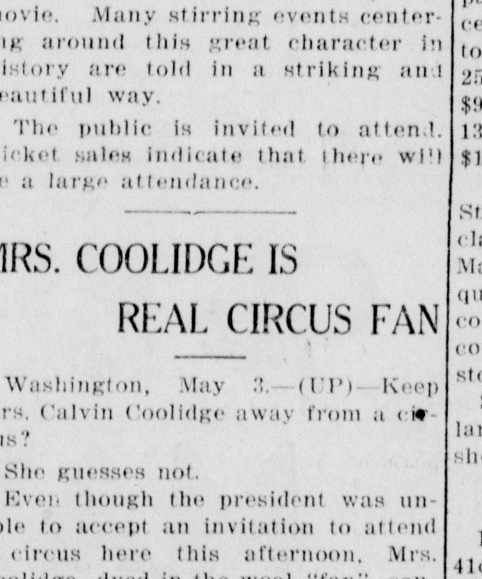

So he said to her: "If I promise sure and certain to hide you as long as I can, to make them hunt and hunt until they get good and ready to love you hard, and to be tickled to pieces to see you come home again, will you tell me what your really-true name is?"

MRS. COOLIDGE IS REAL CIRCUS FAN

Washington, May 3.—(UP)—Keep Mrs. Calvin Coolidge away from a circus?

She guesses not.

Even though the president was unable to accept an invitation to attend a circus here this afternoon, Mrs. Coolidge, dyed-in-the-wool "fan," consented to go.

The circus, opening yesterday, was attended by 18,000, including representatives of virtually every embassy and legation in the city.

Start With Clean Slate

You should enter the door of each new day with a clean slate and clear mind. No matter how poorly you have done your work before, there must be a new start made.—C. F. Johnson.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. —Advt.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.

They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and
